SPECIFICATION

Delete the paragraph on page 3 at lines 5 to 9 with the following paragraph.

If equipped with a first and second transceiver, the adapter establishes a first communication link between the adapter and the contactless power supply. The adapter establishes a second communication link between the adapter and the remote device. The adapter then receives the power requirement information from the remote device and sends the power requirement information to the contactless power supply.

The full text of the replacement paragraph with markings to show all the changes relative to the original version of the paragraph follows:

If equipped with a first and second transceiver, the adapter establishes a first communication link between the adapter and the ~~remote device~~ contactless power supply. The adapter establishes a second communication link between the adapter and the remote device. The adapter then receives the power requirement information from the ~~adapter~~ remote device and sends the power requirement information to the contactless power supply.
